Company Profile

An Introduction to Apriso

Apriso Corporation is a manufacturing software company dedicated to providing competitive advantage for its customers. It does so by enabling manufacturing organizations to adapt quickly and easily to market changes and unexpected events. Apriso's FlexNet platform provides visibility, adaptability and real-time control of manufacturing operations across the enterprise and supply chain network. This is accomplished by integrating planning, execution and control, increasing operational efficiency and eliminating errors in the production process.

Apriso serves more than 175 customers in 41 countries across the Americas, Europe and Asia. Its customers include General Motors, Lear, Honeywell, L'Oréal, Trixell, Lockheed Martin, Becton Dickinson, Saint-Gobain, Novelis and Essilor, among others. Apriso's Global Partner Network

Apriso is a software and professional services provider, operating out of nine offices worldwide, serving the Americas, Europe and Asia. By partnering with the industry's leading technology providers, enterprise software companies, equipment suppliers and system integrators, Apriso delivers the expertise and resources you need to get up and running—and earning all the business benefits you expect from your investment—on time and within budget.

Apriso has a proven partner network to ensure mutual success in deploying enterprise wide solutions for Manufacturing Operations Management (MOM). As a global solution for manufacturing operational excellence, Apriso has developed strong relationships with many of the industry's leading technology providers and systems integrators, including EDS / HP, Accenture, Microsoft, Atos Origin, Capgemini, b-eng-g, Hermes Reply, among others. In addition, Apriso is a member of the SAP Partner Edge community, offering a certified solution with 100+ pre-existing integration points to SAP's Enterprise Resource Planning applications.

Apriso's FlexNet Solution

Apriso's flagship product, FlexNet, is a platform-based Manufacturing Operations Management (MOM) solution designed to serve the multi-location global manufacturing enterprise. Specific applications provide the capabilities to manage and execute manufacturing activities within production, warehouse, quality, maintenance and labor operations.

Built on a single, business process-based platform, each application seamlessly works with each other, sharing a common set of data tables, user interfaces and external integration points. Apriso's FlexNet is a cohesive solution that accelerates global visibility and control to the shop floor to help reduce manufacturing operations and IT costs.

FlexNet empowers you to seamlessly integrate with ERP, PLM and other enterprise applications to manage, control and quickly adapt to the complexities of your business. FlexNet's dynamic, web-based suite of applications synchronize manufacturing and supply chain operations in real-time, providing a conduit for continuous improvement of processes while synchronizing product design, quality and manufacturing processes.

Apriso's solution enables manufacturers to achieve unprecedented agility to respond faster to changing market and demand conditions.

Apriso's FlexNet Serves Many Industries

Leveraging a Business Processes Management (BPM) architecture, Apriso's FlexNet solution is highly adaptable, capable of working within Process, Discrete and Hybrid production environments. The solution is currently deployed across many industries, including Aerospace & Defense, Automotive, Consumer Goods, Life Sciences, Mill Products and Technology & Electronics. Apriso is 100% committed to understanding and delivering manufacturing-based software solutions for enterprise agility, providing a global solution for manufacturing operations management and continuous improvement that addresses both today's and tomorrow's manufacturing challenges.
